Relevant Experience

Brett is a VET professional - able to simplify complexity and problem-solve to achieve best results. He draws on a wealth of life and professional experiences to enliven and add depth to provide long term value for organisations. He is results driven with exceptional communication skills at all levels, having successfully worked in education, finance, resource management, customer service and retail sales. Brett has been heavily involved in VET since 2015 as a trainer and an assessor. Prior to that Brett ran his own construction company for nine years after serving in the Australian Army for 22 years.

Brett has a “yearning for learning” and continues to study to maintain and upgrade skills and qualifications.

Brett was instrumental in setting up MTS’ RPL services for Defence and continues to have key role in that activity.
